

A large, conical bonfire made of stacked wooden planks is burning brightly at night. The fire is intense, with a large plume of orange and yellow flames rising from the left side. The structure is situated on a grassy hill. In the background, a dark silhouette of a person stands on top of the bonfire. A red and white striped caution tape is visible on the right side of the hill. The overall scene is illuminated by the warm glow of the fire against the dark night sky.
